

Yes, I would like to change a child's life story.

One in four schoolchildren in England fails to reach the expected standard of reading when leaving primary school. These children are unable to fully access their secondary education, which has lifelong negative consequences.

There are more than 2,600 dedicated Schoolreaders volunteers listening to children read in school on a one-to-one basis every week. Thanks to their dedication, Schoolreaders is improving child literacy across England.

26,000 children are being helped every week.

With a gift of £40, you can provide a child with the opportunity to have weekly one-to-one reading sessions for a whole academic year.

To donate, simply visit schoolreaders.org.uk/donate, follow the QR code or complete and return this form. Thank you.

Thank you

Thank you for supporting child literacy through Schoolreaders.

Thank you so much for supporting us with the most disadvantaged children who get limited opportunities to read at home. This will really help improve life chances and give children the motivation to feel they can succeed."
